ABSTRACT

An integrated circuit comprising a processor and memory, the memory storing a set of data representing program code and/or an operating value, wherein each bit of the data is stored as a bit/inverse-bit pair in corresponding pairs of physically adjacent bit cells in the memory.

5